

The Viola Player's Survival Guide

- Imagine you're in mid-performance and you get into severe technical difficulties. We've all been there, right?
So what do you do to get out of an embarrassing situation? Here's the answer: The "Freddy Krueger" string cutter. Simply wear it on you finger, and when you need to get out of a tight spot just press it on the string and it'll look like it has accidentally broken. Instead of making an ass of yourself you'll get all the sympathy. What a stunning turn-around, and for only $4.00 each. You cannot risk performing without one.

- Become a virtuoso overnight. Impossible? Not any more! Introducing the "Self-Practising Violatron". A simple-to-use electronic device with no setting up and no need for batteries. Simply install in your instrument case and it will automatically start practising for you when the lid is closed. How great is that? $8.99 Hit the big time without any effort. (Comes in a choice of colors)

- "Teflon Rosin". So there you are sitting in the viola section and you are scared. Who wouldn't be? The prospect of playing all those awkward notes while everyone can see you is what keeps you awake at nights, right?

But not any longer. Scientists have perfected a rosin that is totally frictionless. You can now play with as much abandon as any of the greatest players in the World. And for only $5.00 (Also suitable for 2nd violinists. Buy 2 and get the second for half price)
